

Make your own meeting, everyday..

How could all Molecular Biology community members from diverse levels, backgrounds, countries and organizations be able to communicate and network to discuss their issues and share their knowledge and experience at any time?

The answer is MEMBS Social Network; a totally new specialized platform of communication which has been innovated by Middle East Molecular Biology, designed with international standards and supplied with smart tools in order to guarantee the professional interaction between hundreds of individuals, organizations and companies Middle East wide.

MEMBS Social Network is a virtual knowledge incubator that you will be certainly addicted to..

It is your instant online voice that you can use through your mobile, laptop and PC to ask, answer, vote and share the only thing required is type your question and use submit button to start receiving answers you have asked for.

MEMBS Social Network is one of the most important specialized communication tools in the world, and the only one in the Middle East and Arab world that is dedicated for the Molecular Biology users and innovators.

In addition, MEMBS Social Network is supplied with a specialized hub where students and graduates can find the suitable Molecular Biology vacancies that match their experience and aspirations.